

Join Our Lenten Retreat To You, Oh God, I Lift Up My Soul With Master Catechist Joan Doyle

A wisdom figure once said, “Don’t go through Lent pretending that the Resurrection never happened.” During our time together we will enjoy a little bit of music, a little bit of scripture, and a little bit of reflection in order to discover what this thought might mean for our own spiritual journeys during this season.

10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. on Saturday, February 17 including a modest Lenten meal of soup and bread. Admission is free, donations gratefully accepted. John Carroll Parish Center at Saint Paul the Apostle. Sponsored by STARS, all are welcome.

RSVP by Monday, February 12:

Joan Doyle has a national certification as a “Parish Catechetical Leader.” She is a catechetical consultant, workshop & retreat presenter, and writer. She has held a variety of positions here at St. Paul the Apostle. In our school she was a 7th /8th grade religion teacher and assistant principal. And then for the parish, she was the Director of Religious Education.

Joan’s background includes a Bachelor’s Degree in English and a Master’s Degree in Religious Education from Immaculate Heart College. She holds a California teaching credential as well as certification as both a Master Catechist and a Media Literacy Educator. Joan serves as a judge for The HUMANITAS Prize that was established by Paulist Father “Bud” Kieser. It rewards writers of contemporary film and TV shows that both entertain and enrich the viewing public. Additionally, she has written Study Guides for several Catholic media projects.
